

ModelCo Tan Airbrush in a Can, $45

This instant bronzer and self-tanner delivers a fine mist to achieve a natural-looking long-lasting tan.

Winter warmers

- Any hint of orange will be highlighted in the winter months because your skin will be at its lightest – consult your beautician on the right brands and tones for you.
- For the pale and interesting, a fake tan can make you look more faux than fabulous in winter. Alabaster beauties may benefit more from a moisturiser with built-in tanner, which will gradually build and maintain a glow.
- Less is more. It's easier to add layers to a conservative tan than lighten a too-dark job – be careful not to be overzealous with your tanner in winter.
- Pallid complexions can be instantly lifted with a dusting of bronzer or highlighter across the cheekbones.
- For golden radiance a face-specific tan is best for your face and neck. Not only is it better for your complexion but it's also a more subtle colour concoction.

Palmer's Natural Bronze for Face, $9.95

A creamy lotion with SPF 15, cocoa butter and Vitamin E that builds a gradual tan.

Fake Bake Mousse, $45.95

A goof-proof dark, foamy texture creates a natural-looking tan that dries in seconds and works with all skin tones, even very fair.

Garnier Ambre Solaire Gloss Bronzer, $13.95

This self-tan has an instant bronze shimmery effect. Tinted and light reflecting, it develops in one hour.

Naked Tan Crème de la Crème, $39.95

This intensely moisturising cream combines Shea butter with organic oils, silk amino and calendula.